

Coach Exendine Changes Signals and Tries New Formations For Next Game

GEORGETOWN CHANGES ALL SIGNALS FOR FORDHAMITES

Coach Exendine Also Experiments With New Formations to Use Next Tuesday in Maroon Game.

Johnny Gilroy, Star Halfback, May Be Unable to Play, Owing to Injuries Received Saturday.

By LOUIS A. DOUGHER.

Coach Exendine is busily engaged now in teaching the Georgetown varsity squad an entirely new system of offense in preparation for the game with Fordham at New York next Tuesday. He is trying two formations for the backs, and will decide today which is the better. The signals have all been changed, and the squad will work long and hard this week learning them. Fordham scouts are known to have been present at the Army game last Saturday, but their trip will do them little good, as the Hilltoppers will not look like the same eleven when it lines up against the Maroon.

Johnny Gilroy, "Petie" Wall, Jim Dewhurst, Jackie Maloney, and Tom Gormley were unable to get into uniform yesterday, being still too stiff and sore from their experiences in the Army contest. Gilroy may be unable to play against Fordham, his injured hip preventing him from moving faster than at a snail's pace.

In yesterday's short signal drill Smith, the midget quarterback, was behind the varsity line, with Andy Dempsey, Finn, and Hanlon. Finn is still limping from the knee he hurt in scrimmage practice a couple of weeks ago.

After the squad had been dismissed, Andy Dempsey practiced punting for minutes. He experienced no trouble with his weak knee. He expects to be in shape for the Fordham game.

Huyler Church, formerly of Western High, has gone back to the Yale scrum in the state shift, letting Weidmann take the berth. Church weighs 162 pounds, while Weidmann weighs 185 pounds, fitting better into Hinkley's latest scheme of things.

Don Kelley, Swarthmore's crack halfback, broke his leg in a scrimmage yesterday, and will be out of the game for the rest of the season. The fracture is just below the knee.

Four field goals have been registered against Yale so far. Cahill, of Lehigh, kicked two. Thurman, of Virginia, and Moser, of W. and J., each kicked one.

Doane, Tufts' star halfback, fractured an ankle in the Boston College game last Saturday.

Capt. Charles Bennett, of the Cornell eleven, has scored twice as many touchdowns this season as any back in the East. He has slashed his way across an opponent's goal line eleven times. Martin, of the Navy, and Welch, of Penn., are tied for second, each with five.

Columbia is now talking of erecting a million-dollar stadium at Riverside Drive. The Columbia Heights eleven is now seeking to book games in 1916 with Fordham, Stevens, and New York University for the championship of the metropolis.

Harvard Men in Favor of Reinstatement of Elis

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 27.—Harvard men, athletes in particular, trust that some way out of a permanent disqualification of Le Gou and the other Yale athletes who unknowingly violated the eligibility rules at Yale may be found. Eddie Mahan, football captain, hopes that Le Gou will be reinstated shortly so that he can wear the Yale colors in the Stadium next month.

Captain Nash, of the nine, Bingham, and R. Norris Williams 2d, the intercollegiate tennis champion, feel as Mahan does about the disqualification. Harvard did not favor punishing the offending athletes for the technical infraction of the Yale rules, nor for that matter did Princeton, but the Tiger committee's approval was sort of backhanded. Rules are rules, and what good are they unless you intend to live up to them. Go ahead and play these men, and Princeton will not object, was the gist of Princeton's approval.

It was after a conference between Messrs. Corwin, Briggs, and McEneaney, representing Yale, Harvard and Princeton, that Yale disqualified the men. Harvard still favors reinstatement, and the belief is that Princeton will back it up as heartily now that Captain Middlebrooke and Coach Tompkins confess that they are the most to blame.

Haughton Shifts Team For Penn State Contest

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 27.—Coach Percy Haughton has done some more shifting in preparation for the Penn State game Saturday. Morgan and Taylor were moved from center and placed at guard, with Wallace back at the middle position. Daddum was shifted from left to right guard. Joe Gilman's injured ankle is keeping him out of the practice, but he will play against the Tigers on November 6. Unless all signs fall, Harvard will face Princeton as follows: Harle and Houchy end; Gilman and Parsons, tackle; Daddum and Taylor, guard; Wallace, center; Wilcox, quarterback; Mahan, King and Emmett, backs.

Pig Caretakers

HANOVER, Oct. 27.—Several Dartmouth students have devised a new way to get to the football game next Saturday at Amherst. The Interstate Commerce Commission refused to allow students to ship themselves as live stock on freight trains, which would make traveling much cheaper than by passenger train. So it was decided to ship a small pig in a special car to Amherst with as many students as possible as caretakers. If there are enough students who are willing to see that the pig reaches its destination, another pig will be bought and shipped in another car.

PRINCETON TRYING FOR STRONG ATTACK

Coach Rush Lays Stress on Teamwork as Harvard Contest Approaches Nearer.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 27.—Realizing that Harvard, smarting under the Cornell defeat, may come back with greatly increased power, Coach Rush is seeking to improve the teamwork of his Tigers, particularly on offense. During yesterday's practice the varsity was allowed to carry the ball almost all the time.

A long scrimmage, with plenty of preliminary work and signal drill, was the program for the team yesterday. Even field, where the varsity ran up against the second team for half an hour of scrimmage for the purpose of trying out new plays.

When the public was admitted the regulars were given the ball irrespective of the downs, and told to rush it up field, with the varsity run up against the second team for half an hour of scrimmage for the purpose of trying out new plays.

The only forward pass tried netted a gain of forty yards. The scrubs were given the ball on the five-yard line, but all their efforts to put it over the line were unsuccessful. Very little individual work was attempted, and instead the effort of the coaches was centered on the offense and defense, and in connection with the kicking game, which is gradually being perfected.

Ed Dunkhorst Dies.

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—Edward Dunkhorst, thirty-eight years old, 6 ft. 8 in. tall, known as the "Human Freight Car" because of his enormous size, died here yesterday at a hospital. He was a former spring partner of Robert Piccininni, and for the last nine years has given sparring exhibitions. Dunkhorst was six feet seven inches in height and weighed 672 pounds at the time of his death.

Virginia Players Are Suffering From Burns

Lime, Marking Gridiron at Athens, Gets Into Skin of Arms and Necks—Orange and Blue Now Preparing to Give V. M. I. Neat Beating.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Oct. 27.—The Virginia football team will now be at home for two weeks, during the course of which games will be played with V. M. I. and with Vanderbilt. The men on the team are in good condition, with one exception—there is hardly one of them who is not nursing burns from lime.

The field at Athens, where they played Saturday, was gridironed with lime, and this got on the arms and necks of some of the players and started to work. It hasn't finished yet.

But there were no broken noses or hands, or anything of that caliber. The team is quite tired from the long trips that it has had in the past month, during which time it has traveled 2,500 miles, but is pleased because it has had only one defeat so far this season. The contest with Georgia was close, but that's a matter of the past now with them, and Saturday's game is receiving all the attention.

The contest this week with the cadets from Lexington will be of value to the doctors in more ways than one. In the first place, V. M. I. tied the University of North Carolina, Virginia's classic foe. North Carolina was whipped by Georgetown. If the locals win from the cadets Saturday by a good margin, it will show their clear superiority over the Tarheels, and will give some indication of the probable outcome of a contest with the Washingtonians.

After V. M. I. the Commodores, under the sterling leadership of Col. Daniel McGugin, march to Charlottesville, to hear the lion in his lair. They have a long journey ahead of them, and hope to trounce the Virginia.

Several alibis are forthcoming for Virginia's alleged letdown at Athens Saturday. The most plausible of these is that the heat, which was between 90 and 95 degrees, was way too much for the locals, who had been accustomed to brisk fall weather, and so they soon lost all their "pep," and couldn't do their best work. The long journey also is thought to have tired them out most intensely.

One of the letdowns in the university today is R. Edgar Tippet, of Baltimore, Md., whose skillful toe was first and last responsible for snatching victory from the jaws of defeat by the field goal he booted across the Georgia line the last thirty seconds of play. But this is not his only call to fame. In 1912 Ed attended Johns Hopkins, and there also played on the football team. That year Hopkins had a record of 10 wins and 2 losses, and Quaker's goal after a beautiful run for some distance. This was the only score Hopkins made, and great was the rejoicing on account of it.

Tippet is a skillful punter, and perhaps a better drop-kicker than Allen Thurman. Both of these are very good in the latter department, but Allen seems to be having a slump recently in his punts, both as to the direction and distance which they travel. He is practicing hard to get over this, but does not seem to be meeting with the desired success.

Old-timers remember that in the fall of 1912 a team came out of Lexington, to Lambeth Field, and went off the field the conqueror of the proud Virginia players by a score of 19 to 0. Of course such an upset is not anticipated this fall, after what has been done to Yale and Harvard, but the Georgia game would seem to indicate that the team is in the mood for a victory.

Protest Him

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Trinity College may find herself ostracized by her rival Eastern colleges if she continues to play George Brickley, brother of the famous Charley, in the backfield of her football team. Brickley formerly was a member of Connie Mack's Athletics. New York University is the latest to protest against his professionalism. Several other colleges already have filed protests.

Cavanaugh Will Seek New Ends and Quarters

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 27.—Without too lightly disposing of the Amherst game in advance, the Dartmouth coaches have set to work with the Penn game in Boston a week from Saturday as the next objective point in the season's schedule. Trainer Harry Hillman and coach Cavanaugh looked over the men who played against Princeton and found them all right.

Folwell Can't See Why Rutgers Should Be Played

WASHINGTON, Pa., Oct. 27.—Another possible clash at the Polo Grounds in New York between Washington and Jefferson College and Rutgers was proposed by Foster Sanford, head coach of Rutgers, when Washington and Jefferson was in New York on its recent trip. The proposition was turned down by R. M. Murphy, the local manager.

As a result of Washington and Jefferson's great success again this year a tempting financial offer was made by Sanford. The matter was put up to Coach Folwell, and he decided that the campaign for his men would be enough, and as no additional honors could be won by playing Rutgers, did not think it advisable to play the game.

Puts White Away.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 27.—George Chaney of this city, knocked out Jack White, of Chicago, in the first round of a scheduled fifteen-round bout at the American A. C. here last night. The local lad fainted and drew White's guard to one side and then crashed a terrific punch to the heart, and White dropped. The referee counted him out. Jack is a brother of Charley White, the sensational lightweight.

HEAVY PLAYERS GET PLACES ON ELEVEN

Coach Hinkley Makes Many Shifts in Hopes of Stopping Colgate's Attack.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 27.—Whole-sale shifts in the Yale varsity were ordered yesterday, and the heaviest men on the squad were put into the positions. With the exception of two backfield positions, which are wholly unscathed as yet, it looked this afternoon as though the biggest men are to get the places.

Frank Hinkley and his fellow-coaches devoted their attention to defensive tactics. Apparently they are not going to bother about Yale offense, for the present at least, for next Saturday Yale is to meet Colgate, which has the greatest scoring record of any team in the East this season.

Only two men who have places in the new Yale line have been playing the same positions as regulars all season. They are Moseley at left end and Carl White at center. Here is the way the new varsity lined up this afternoon: Left end, Moseley; left tackle, Smith; left guard, Black; center, White; right guard, Kent; right tackle, J. Sheldon; right end, Wideman; quarterback, Wilson; left halfback, Walte; right halfback, Higginbotham; fullback, Scott.

Smith has substituted once at tackle in a regular game. He played on the scrubs last year. Black is the regular varsity left guard, but has been out of the play nearly all season. Kent has been a substitute guard and tackle, and is the heaviest man on the team. Jim Sheldon is a member of the Yale crew and has been playing right guard. Wideman got his first start in the game against Washington and Jefferson.

SULLIVAN WILL NOW MEET K. O. BRENNEN

Shenandoah Miner Comes Close to Putting Out Al McCoy in Aggressive Contest.

Kayo Sullivan, of Shenandoah, Pa., is now expected to be hooked up in a fifteen-round battle at Ardmore with Knockout Brennan, the Buffalo slugger, as a result of his victory last night over Al McCoy, of Brooklyn, in a slashing, rushing, slugger match that went the entire distance.

The Pennsylvania miner showed himself a tough boy, with a wallop in either hand and a consuming desire to mix it with his opponent. McCoy's greater experience counted for a round or two, but then Sullivan's youth and strength began to tell, and Hank Griffin's protégé earned the laurels in every round to the tenth. The final five sessions saw McCoy doing better, but not enough to prevent Referee Connor from giving the bout to Sullivan.

In the sixth Sullivan sent McCoy to the ropes with a stiff right and left to the head, the bell coming to the Brooklyn lad's assistance. The next round saw Sullivan continuing his advantage, one of his swingeing topknots McCoy to his knees. Just a little more strength would have given Sullivan the victory by a knockout.

The semi-final was a sizzling affair of eight rounds between Young Thomas, of Washington, and Harry Glenn, of Baltimore, the referee calling it a draw. Glenn's lightning saved him from defeat.

Jack Beland won from Billy Murray in four rounds, and Kid Whip defeated Kid McCauley in six rounds.
